ROLLER POLO.

THE NEW-YORK AND BROOKLYN TEAMS OPEN THE CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES.

The place was thronged, and it was estimated that more than three thousand spectators were present. Arile Latha n, the old-time baseball comedian, referred the game, and did it well. There was plenty of aggressiveness to the game, and while plenty of the players were injured, none were so eriously hurt that they were compelled to leave Malone's playing was criticised severely. Neither side was any too gentle in the second period, but playing fast and clean polo. Coyle's work early in the game was superb. He retired in the third period in favor of Parsons. Anderson's goal-keepng was excellent in the early part of the game.

The teams will play in Brooklyn to-night.

The game was started at 8.45 p. m. Tarrant won the rush for New-York, but the ball was forced quickly to New-York territory. With the ball near side of the cage, Coyle got it in a scrimmage and shot a pretty goal after only forty-five seconds of play. Brooklyn had the lead, and the contingent from across the river yelled furiously. Perkins won the next rush. The playing was fast and furious for the next five minutes. BARON COUBERTIN MAKES A DENIAL.

REFUSED TO PERMIT OLYMPIAN GAMES TO BE HELD IN PARIS.

Baron Coubertin, the president of the Interna-tonal Committee of the Olympian Games to be held in Paris in 1800, cables from Cannes to The Tribune denying the statement that the French Government had refused recognition to the Olympian Games International Committee and would not permit the games to be held in Paris.

Baron Coubertin says: "What seems even more Baron Coubertin says: "What seems even more extraordinary is that such erroneous statements should have been brought before the committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of America. We never asked any help from the Government, because we do not believe in Government athletics. We believe in a committee composed of competent and wealthy men determined to make the games a success, who do not seek decorations and pompous title. Such is our committee for 1990."

UNIVERSITY CHESS PLAYERS CHOSEN. The four universities which are to play an intercollegiate tournament in this city next week have selected their players. These will be A. S. Meyer and K. G. Falk, from Columbia; E. E. Southard and F. C. Ahrensberg, from Harvard, L. A. Cook and W. A. Webb, from Yale, and Alfred C. Weston and John A. Ely, jr., from Princeton. The games, as has previously been stated in The Tribune, will be has previously been stated in The Tribune, will be played at the Columbia Grammar School, Nos. 34 and 35 East Fifty-first-st, this city. Play will begin on Monday at 2 o'clock, and end on Saturday some time in the afternoon or evening. A glance at the names of the men selected to play will revoal the fact that there are only three men who have played in previous similar contests—namely, Meyer, Southard and Cook—the others being new men. Falk, however, is known in this city from his last year's performance in the interscholastic tournament, when he won the first prize for the highest individual score.

BOSTON ATHLETES MAY COMPETE.

In all probability the Boston Athletic Associa-tion will be represented at the coming Knickerbocker Athletic Club games that will be held in Madison Square Garden on January 13. The Ath-Madison Square Garden on January 13. The Athletic Committee will bring up the matter at a meeting to be held at the clubhouse to-day. Coe, the well-known shot-putter, who is looked upon as the coming champion in this specialty, will compete in a special shot-putting contest which has been arranged for bringing together Messrs. Coe, Sheldon, McCracken, Mitchel, Herty, Beck and other well-known shot-putters.

pionship of Class B ended last evening at the Knickerbocker Athletic Club theatre, with an-other exciting match between Taylor, of Chicago, and Smith, of St. Loufs. The two Westerners were tied for second and third prizes, and the game last night was an extra play-off to break the tie. Taylor won by 11 points after one of the most ex-citing struggles of the tournament. In their previous encounter last week Smith had been the vic tor by only 28 points.

Last night's game began badly. Both of the experts were visibly nervous and missed many easy shots. Smith persistently left the balls "safe," and the Chicagoan could not get them together for any large runs. In his fifteenth inning Taylor made the first good run of the game, a break of 24 points, but two innings later Smith more than offset them by clicking off 27 carroms by careful nursing. He followed this up by other good runs and oon had a substantial lead.

Taylor pulled up a lot with a big run of 26 in his Taylor pulled up a lot with a big run of 36 in his thirty-first inning but he had just overtaken Smith when the latter got the balls rolling to please him, and his stroke was so careful that he piled up 28, 38, 11 and 24 in successive innings. Taylor steadily crawled up on him again, and once more tied the score at 286. Then followed an exciting finish. First one man got the lead and then the other, until Taylor ran 17 and jumped his score up to 280. A little later Smith ran 29 and reached 285.

Both were then too nervous to do much and each played for safety. Smith got the balls together in good position to run out, but they lined up and he missed. Finally Taylor gathered himself together and made the nine carroms he needed, running out the game with Smith still at 29.

Score follows:

Referee-Edward McLaughlin. This leaves Stark the champlonship of Class Taylor second and Smith third.

Yale and Harvard will divid total expenditures for the game were $3,791 80, and the total receipts, $34,342. Yale's half of the profits of the Princeton game amount to $10,230 receipts footed up $24,544, and the expenditude $4,482.77. Thus the two games have nett $25,565.82, and there is a small balance still from outstanding collections to be made from the Princeton game. The sum realized this year is sev-eral thousand dollars more than that of any previ-ous year.

BALTIMORE STARS COMBINE.

BEST PLAYERS WILL DEMAND MORE PAY IF THE DEAL WITH BROOKLYN GOES THROUGH

Baltimore, Dec. 19 (Special).—The star players of the Baltimore baseball team, Kelley, Keeler, Mcinson, held a meeting here to-night, with a view to getting something out of the proposed deal with Brooklyn. The four first-named players, known as the "Big Four," have determined not to sign to play on the Brooklyn team unless they get more money than they have been getting in Baltimore. They are probably encouraged in their demand by the local syndicate of rich sporting men, headed the local syndicate of rich sporting men, headed by "Gus" Fenneman, proprietor of Electric Park, formed to buy the Baltimore club's franchise or start a new baseball association. The players have formed an offensive and defensive alliance, and will demand the salary limit of $2.40 and 10 per cent of the net profits.

Vonderhorst has not yet signed the papers for the Brooklyn-Baltimore deal. There is a hitch somewhere.

COUNTING THE SOLDIER VOTE.

ELABORATE FORMALITIES THAT MUST BE CAR-

The counting of the soldier vote in New-York County to-day will necessitate the opening of 717 of the polling-places which were used at the last elec-tion, the assembling of about six times that number of election officers, the reading of the envelopes in which the bailots are inclosed, to determine if in which the ballots are inclosed, to determine if the soldier who cast the ballot is a qualified voter in the election district, the placing of the ballots in a box at each place, the counting of the ballots after the box is opened, and the formal record of the count. The formal statements of the count of the ballots must be sent to the County Clerk tomorrow, and the Board of County Canvassers must amend the canvass of the votes cast at the last election by adding the soldier votes.

An assistant in the Corporation Counsel's Office decided yesterday that it would not be necessary to close the liquor stores in the city to-day while the votes of the soldiers are being counted, because the day is not the day of election, but merely the day of counting the votes.

"I do no think that the action of the Board of Officers wi think that the action of the Board of Officers will have any more effect this year than it did at the Baltimore meeting two years ago," said one official. "The New-York division went to that assembly a unit against racing but all the other divisions laughed at them. It will be the same at the coming convention at Providence, Depend on it, the Executive Committee of the League will not recommend giving up the control of racing. If there was some organization in the field competent to control the sport, then it would be a different thing, but there is no such organization in the field, and there is little likelihood of there being one. The League of American Wheelmen has fostered and built up racing for many years, and the thinking men of the organization cannot afford to cast it to the dogs at this time. Comparatively few of the officers of the New-York Division of the League of American Wheelmen ever go to races or take any interest in the sport. That is the reason why the vote to divorce the division from racing was so overwhelmingly in favor of having nothing further to do with the sport. I realize that the decision is baim to the leaders of the outlaw movement, but the National Assembly will put an entirely different complexion to the whole affair."

Milo M. Belding, jr., the new chief consul of th division, returned home yesterday. Mr. Belding has started the machinery of the division to work in good order, and if the membership and power of the division are not increased materially in his administration it will not be his fault. Mr. Belding expects to announce the several committees in a few days. One proposition which was made, and which will be carried out, is the appointment of an honorary committee of fifty, after each member has informed the chief consult that he will act and abide by the conditions. The arrangement is that each of the committee of fifty will guarantee to bring in five new members in the year or forfeit the sum of $10. This will insure a good working committee, and the membership in the division ought to increase according y. FOUND DEAD IN A CELLAR.

POLICE BELIEVE THAT AN OLD PLORIST WAS MURDERED-WOUNDS ABOUT

HIS HEAD AND THROAT. Jean Baptiste Colin, sixty-seven years old, who had been employed by a florist, was found lying dead in the cellar of No. 217 West Twenty-eighthyesterday morning, with a jagged wound in his throat and several scalp wounds. Colin was a Frenchman and a widower. He occupied the cellar both as a workshop and as living quarters. In the front was a large amount of Christmas greenery, which he was weaving into wreaths and other hristmas decorations. His fiving rooms were cur-

Christmas decorations. This twing tooms were curtained off from the workshop.

The old man was last seen on Sunday morning.
Early yesterday Mrs. Augustine La Rochelle, the wife of the florist for whom Colin worked, called at a neighboring saloon and asked for the old man. It was then remembered that no one had seen him for some time and two men went with Mrs. La Rochelle to the cellar, in search of him. Colla's body was discovered lying in a pool of blood just behind a curtain. He was fully dressed and the bed in the room was untouched. Near him was a bed in the room was untouched. Near him was a broken bottle, and on the table near by were two knives. A bloody knife was found under the body. The room contained a table and two chairs. In the man's throat was a jagged wound, which looked as though it had been made by some blunt instrument, and there were several scalp wounds. The wound in the throat was deep enough to be fatal. The body was cold.

old man committed suicide. His wife died a year ago, and he had since been somewhat melancholy and dispirited. The police, however, were inclined to regard the case as one of probable murder. There could be no motive for murder, so far as could be learned, however.

A colored man named Peter Ross, who keeps a coal and wood establishment in the cellar adjoining that inhabited by Colin, and separated from it by only a wooden partition, told the police last night that he heard the voice of the old man and that of a woman laughing and joking together on Sunday. Suddenly the voices became quiet and everything was still.

WON'T CALL THE BOWERY AN AVENUE. The Boards of Local Improvements of the Xth nd XIth districts held a meeting yesterday and and XIth districts held a meeting yesterday and decided not to change the name of the Bowery. A petition was circulated last spring from storekeepers and property-owners to have the name of the Bowery changed to Third or Fourth ave. Alderman Fleck, who was appointed to investigate, reported against the proposed change, and the Board indorsed his recommendation.
